Purpose of Event

The value of industrial hemp is widely recognized worldwide based on the concept of SDGs, and the development of hemp-related science and technology has become an important issue in Japan as well. Therefore, Japan Industrial Hemp Association aims to promote international cooperation in this field by holding a large-scale international conference in Japan for the first time, with the main theme of the development of science and industry in hemp and cannabinoids. This conference will introduce cutting-edge research outcomes on the industrial application of hemp and the medical application of cannabinoids. In addition, researchers and representatives of hemp-related associations from around the world, including European Industrial Hemp Association (EIHA), Alliance of European Flax-Linen & Hemp Federation, Thai Industrial Hemp Trade Association (TIHTA), National Industrial Hemp Council (NIHC) of USA, and Medical Cannabis Clinical Research Association of Korea, will participate in the lectures and discussions on various topics.
